5. REQUIREMENTS AND PROCESS

5.1 Application and Admission Fees

At the time of application, Albright Institute provides all its prospective students with a Letter of Offer, outlining all the fees and charges applicable to the student's entire enrolment duration. This includes the total upfront payment required, and a payment plan for the payment of the rest of the fees for the duration of the enrolment. The Letter of Offer will include all tuition fees and all non-tuition fees.

Albright Institute will never ask for an upfront payment of more than 50% of the tuition fees; however, the student may choose to pay an upfront amount exceeding 50% of the total tuition fees of the course.

- Onshore Application Fee (Non-refundable) is $100.00/- and the Onshore Admission Fee (Non-refundable) is $100.00/-
- Offshore Application Fee (Non-refundable) is $150.00/- and the Offshore Admission Fee (Non-refundable) is $150.00/-.

The Student Acceptance Agreement will act as the financial written agreement between the student and Albright Institute and, by signing it, the student accepts the responsibility of meeting all the outlined financial commitments and paying all fees by the due date. If the total upfront fees are not paid in full and proof of payment is not presented, Albright Institute will not finalise the student's enrolment. Standard policy is that proof of payment must be reconciled with the deposit for the enrolment to be finalised. This means that the money must have reached the Albright Institute's bank account for the transaction to be considered complete.

If the student makes a payment to Albright Institute from an account in Australia and provides proof of the transfer, Albright Institute may, at its discretion, proceed with the enrolment and issue a Confirmation of Enrolment (CoE) prior to the money being received.

5.2 Paying Fees during the student Enrolment

- 1) During the student enrolment, the balance of the fees is to be paid on an instalment payment plan outlined in the Student Acceptance Agreement.
- 2) The student is required to set up a Direct Debit, which is a regular automatic payment set up on Albright Institute's Commonwealth Bank Account (which is mentioned on the Letter of Offer) using their BSB and Account Number.
- 3) The student is advised to refer to the information on Direct Debit <https://www.commbank.com.au/banking/direct-debits.html>
- 4) In case the student has no Australian bank account, or automatic payments cannot be set up on the student's bank account for any reason, payments could be processed using a valid credit card, the details of which should also be provided to Albright Institute in such cases.
- 5) The student is advised that Albright Institute will charge the due payment to the credit card in case the direct debit fails.
